Every Ballot Counts

Independent research on federal election-data systems, contracts and data flows ahead of the Nov 3, 2026 midterms. Built from public records. Updated Oct 27, 2026.

QUICK LINKS

Website (start here)	good-luck-with-that-ops.github.io/Every_Ballot_Counts
Architecture map	…/map/architecture.html (best on a big screen)
System Registry	…/registry/ one entry per system, vehicle or data feed
Phrase Trail	…/phrase-trail/ recurring language across documents
YouTube channel	Good Luck With That on YouTube
PDF downloads (Google Drive)	Public Drive folder
Contact	amanda.everyballotcounts@gmail.com
GitHub (source, corrections)	github.com/good-luck-with-that-ops/Every_Ballot_Counts

WHAT THIS IS

A public, living reference that connects Federal Register notices, privacy assessments, procurement and USAspending records, court filings, hearings and news reports about the systems that hold or move election-related data, and the contracts behind them.

HOW TO READ IT

D primary document R reporting I inference U unresolved K general knowledge, verify

Every claim carries one of these marks. Vendors are treated as neutral infrastructure; nothing here alleges wrongdoing by any vendor or person.

HELP IMPROVE IT

Spot an error or have a record to add? Email amanda.everyballotcounts@gmail.com or open an issue on GitHub with the claim and a source. Reuse with attribution (CC BY 4.0).

Independent research by an individual in a personal capacity. Not legal advice, not an official source, and not the position of any employer or organization. Not an investigation with inside sources.